

The Partners and staff at Leeds Day are pleased to announce two recent appointments; Sara Lawson to the Commercial Business Team and Stephen Burrige to the Conveyancing team.

Stephen Burrige—Solicitor

Stephen qualified as a Solicitor in 1984 and has specialised in residential Conveyancing in the local area ever since. He prides himself on the service he offers his clients and over the years has built up a reputation as someone who will get “the job done” in a professional and timely way. He has experience in freehold and leasehold sales and purchases, remortgages, transfers of equity and shared ownership properties. He has worked both in the private sector and also for a large Housing Association as its in-house lawyer which involved managing large scale sale and acquisition programmes.

He is well respected locally and has established good working relationships - he finds that a good sense of humour always helps any situation. Stephen will work at the St Ives office.

Sara Lawson—Solicitor

Sara has a wide experience of commercial property transactions, from acting for developers in acquiring land subject to planning consent, to extensive landlord and tenant work, to dealing with agricultural land. Sara has acted for large portfolio clients dealing with all the management issues of letting a whole shopping centre, and regularly acts for all kinds of commercial tenants.

Her extensive experience also includes acting for public and police authorities, colleges and charities. Sara has experience in the acquisition and disposal of large residential development sites and has also acted for national banks on refinancing commercial properties.

Sara has conducted a wealth of small business sales and purchases from pubs to hairdressers and undertaken corporate support work on large corporate transactions.

Sara qualified in 2002 and in 2008 obtained a LLM Masters Degree in Advanced Legal Practice in Commercial Property. Sara will work at the St Neots office alongside Partner Bruce Elam.
